GRAFT'S EXPENSIVE, TOO

"If we stay in session," warned a state representative arguing against prolonging the present special session of the general assembly to Feb. 28, "the papers will say this is the most expensive legislature in history."

Yes, the papers may say that. But if the line of investigation being followed by the senate committee attempting to prove charges of graft against various persons who have been doing business for and with the state government continues to turn up damaging evidence, a more important conclusion is likely.

It would be that the most expensive legislature in history is not too much to pay for placing a restraining hand on the operation of a seemingly bold and greedy ring of men who have betrayed a public trust. Nothing is more expensive than graft, which gives back nothing for what it takes away.

The sights behind the curtains which the senate committee has lifted are not pleasant. Ohio, having seen them, wonders how much more remains unseen. If keeping the legislature in session is the only way to make it possible for the investigators to look into more dark places, then it should be kept in session indefinitely.

ENVY

Business having heartburn over the latest White House correspondence school lesson in how to make a payroll out of surplus already confiscated by their government can't be blamed for feeling a twinge of envy.

Things are a whole of a lot simpler in Washington. There, when income drops off and a few old Scrooges begin to rasp disagreeable advice about cutting the coat to fit the cloth, no one needs to make himself unpopular by entertaining the idea of economizing. The "profit system" has been repealed in Washington to all intents and purposes.

There's always more where the last came from, in Washington. They keep it in a secret drawer where you reach in with one hand to deposit an IOU and take out the cash with the other hand. No need to worry about surpluses for government to confiscate with taxes, nor about deficits which bring on bankruptcy.

Costs can go up, up, up—forever, in Washington, with or without income to match them—or can they? Businessmen would appreciate a White House release on that topic. Maybe they've been reading the wrong book or looking into the wrong mirrors.

RIGHT DIRECTION

Here's a statement proving this is an expanding universe in which men grow smarter as they grow older. It was made in connection with the campaign to sell Americans on American business. The speaker is George H. David, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

"I'd rather have one man yelling 'What helps business helps you' in Abilene, Texas, than to have all Wall Street yelling," he said. "There's nothing more insane than a lot of businessmen getting together and selling one another on business—that they're already sold on. We want to reach that middle 40,000,000, that one-third of the population that has been pretty much neglected, and let them know about the American system."

There shouldn't be anything hard about selling the idea that kicking the American businessman in the shins is silly, and there wouldn't be, except for one thing. The salesmen waited till their competitors had put in their best bids; now they must unsell what never could have been sold in the first place if business hadn't surrendered to its abusers.

Abilene, incidentally, is a good place to start. The fact the president of the United States Chamber of Commerce has mentioned it may serve as a needed reminder to some of his acquaintances that there's still a lot of country, a lot of Americans and a lot of ideas about the American system west of the Alleghenies, west of the Mississippi and west of the Rockies.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, January 30

Sunday's horoscope is a rather conflicting one, with many promises of progress and stability coming from industry and steadfastness. But beware of a disintegrating force, a sudden upheaval, change, travel or another surprise, particularly in the domestic or social circle, in which there may be much liveliness or commotion.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a devastating year, with change, removal or journeys, suddenly precipitated. There may be some change in the domestic or social circle. After such change, there may be substantial improvement in the fortune or possessions.

A child born on this day may be energetic and steady in business and employment, but it may also be adventurous and fond of travel.

For Monday, January 31

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of great progress and prosperity, with many expansive ventures. There are signs of promotion and favors from employers or superiors. Nevertheless, there is need of caution against fraud, deceit and treachery. Also there is augury of sudden and devastating occurrence, possibly in the home circle or in romantic entanglements. Friendship and pleasant affairs may engage the household.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of upheaval or disturbance probably upsetting the domestic regime. Success, promotion, favors or preferment from employers or superiors may be expected. Financial gain through speculation is presaged.

A child born on this day may be able, versatile and may attract the favoritism of elders and superiors. It should be very popular and arrive at leading station in life.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—One of the disappointments in big city life is the lack of fires. During a quarter century in the metropolis, I have seen but one sizable conflagration. That was the famous Triangle hotel-caust with trapped sweat-shop girls swaying at windows and plunging to death on sidewalks below.

Out in Gallipoli we had dandy fires without casualties. The whole town poised in grip of expectancy at the first clasp of the old bell in the Presbyterian church. Nobody thought of staying home, no matter the hour. Even the invalids came in wheel chairs.

Harry Maddy, of the Ohio Valley Bank, is our leading buff and rarely missed a blaze. Each night to this day, they say, when the bell taps he jumps into his clothes, lightninglike, and is off, arranging his apparel on a chair at his bedside at bed-time to lose no time.

Our biggest fire was the night the furniture factory along the creek bank burned to the ground. Editor Sibley routed Mr. Lockwood at the telephone office to send off an account to the city papers at 2 a. m. The fire started in the paint shop, then got into the wood turning section and spread to the surrounding lumber yards. At one time the heat was so intense it blistered the paint on Simeon Nash's porch a block away. Chuck Sweeney was hero of this one. He climbed a water pipe and saved papers out of Major Fuller's private office. Chuck later became a balloonist with a touring wagon circus, sailing upward and landing in nearby cornfields for $4 a voyage.

Hot arguments raged around the equally hot big-bellied stoves as to who was the best volunteer fireman. Most folk agreed it was between Hub Moots and Chet Rhodes. Moots was considered best in un-reeling the hose and being the most accomplished squitter. But Gen. Lew Shires always contended Rhodes was "footiest on the ladder." All either got for such skill was a skull dent in Moots's head where hair would not grow. A falling brick nicked him at the Kerr hardware store fire.

There were usual suspicions of fire-bugs after each blaze and many whispers. Dummy Trot, the deaf mute, was said to have set off several just to see the crowds and the fire wagons arrive. Anyway, it was thought strange a deaf person, such as he, was first to arrive. He was reported as having been seen by a number sneaking up the levee the night the Annie Q. Nelson burned to the river edge. When it was agreed the packet could not be saved, she was cut adrift and floated to mid-stream, lighting up the whole town and West Virginia hills. A sight to remember!

Then the time our frame cottage on Court street caught fire. "Hot air combustion in the attic," the Daily Tribune said. They sent to school for sister and me. And when one was told to go home by teacher after a messenger knocked at the door one knew it was something ominous. Outside we could hear the fire bell and see people rushing down Back Street and turning toward the river on Court. At McCormack's lively stable, Monk Welch, the weazened hostler, yelled: "Better hurry Bub, your grandma's house is a-burnin'." "Sister turned oyster white and I was on the edge of a congestive chill, suddenly remembering sneaking up to the attic the day before to try out something new in corncob pipes.

Turning the corner, I saw Deck Burns, cook in Billy Schwartz's saloon, carrying out our horse-hair sofa. Piled up near the hitching block were the crayon of Uncle Alex made the year he went to the World's Fair in Chicago—in case anything happened—the brass coal scuttle from the parlor and several other household furnishings. There was a thin trickle of smoke from the attic window. Grandma was across on Miss Nettie Frank's porch, as cool as anything. She was kneading bread dough when the boy who delivered the groceries appeared at the back door and shrieked "Fire!" It was over in a half hour. That evening all of us sat on the front porch as usual. Life went on.

WALKING

ALL ARE agreed that in one form or another, exercise is a benefit to the human body. During the summer months it is customary for most of us to indulge in daily exercise. It is a pity to neglect this needed tonic during the winter months.

To be so neglectful is a bad habit which too many of us living in cold climates have acquired. During the winter the winds tempt us, and weather conditions may be far from ideal for exercise. The sedentary habits of winter sometimes lead to physical stagnation, with lowering of the general resistance.

If most of us kept up with a certain amount of exercise during the winter months, it is probable that better health would result. Colds, coughs and upper respiratory infections, so prevalent at this time of the year, would be less frequent. Many of the health pitfalls of winter would be avoided. Excessive exercise is not good and should not be practiced at any time of the year. But I desire to press the point that it is unwise to slump into sedentary existence merely because the temperature has dropped and it is more comfortable to stay at home.

Use Gymnasium
For those who are physically fit and in good health, but unwilling to exercise out-of-doors, I strongly recommend the use of the gymnasium. Even if you are below par in the beginning, you will be amazed at the improvements in your general health and well being if you

Services In Our Churches

Emmanuel Lutheran Services Tomorrow Listed by Minister

Services tomorrow at the Emmanuel Lutheran church, 20 South Broadway, as announced today by Rev. John Bauman, are as follows:

Sunday school with classes for all ages meets at 9 a. m. Lee Schaefer, superintendent. The pastor's Bible class meets at 9:15 a. m.

Divine worship service at 10 a. m. Pastor Bauman will preach on the Third Commandment. His sermon theme is "The Proper Observance of the Lord's Day." All who have no regular church affiliations are sincerely invited to attend divine worship service and hear this sermon, which will be intensely practical in character. We believe that young and old will find this sermon instructive and helpful.

German service at 11 a. m.

Making Happiness

Why certainly everybody wants to be happy. It is the most natural thing to want joy and happiness. Children as a rule are happy. It is only as they grow older that happiness seems to escape from them. There are some people who go through life with happiness all the way. They have been able to find the buoyancy and joy of childhood. It does not require much to make them happy. They can enjoy little things and feel happy over things which we would possibly despise. Now the secret of the whole matter is that they are not happy because of what they possess, but because of what they are. The man who is looking for happiness to make him happy will have to suffer disappointment very often. There are many others just like him. The man whose purpose is to make happiness for others will get the most happiness for himself.

You cannot make others happy by lamenting and complaining, with frowns and scowls; these will not make happiness. Try smiles and songs, try cheerfulness and optimism. James Whitcomb Riley has put it into verse as follows:

"It's the song you sing and the smiles you wear,
That makes the sun shine every-where.
And the world of gloom is a world of glee,
With the birds in the bush and the bud on the tree."

Announcements

On Wednesday at 4 p. m. Junior confirmation class meets.

On Wednesday at 7:30 meeting of the church council in the pastor's study.

Thursday at 7:30 church practice.

Christian Science Society Services

"Love" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read at the morning worship of the Christian Science Society tomorrow.

The Sunday service is also broadcast over station WHK, Cleveland, the second and fourth Sundays of each month.

Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years will be held at 10 a. m. while on Wednesday the mid-week service will be held at the church at 8 p. m.

The Golden Text is: "We have seen and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him" (1 John 4:16).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord appeared of old unto me, saying: Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love; therefore with loving kindness have I drawn thee" (Jeremiah 31:3).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health with Key to Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy: "People go into ecstasies of the sense of a corporeal Jesus, though with scarcely a word of love in their hearts; yet the love of God, and without Love, immortality cannot appear." (p. 312).

Topic of Friends' Sermon Is Listed

English Lutheran Sermon Topic For Sunday Announced

"Jesus Talks of Life" is the subject of the sermon which Rev. George D. Keister will preach at the morning worship service of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church tomorrow, the fourth Sunday after Epiphany.

Services and announcements for the church are as follows:

Sunday school, 9:45; (Mark 2:1-12). Charles W. Youtz, superintendent.

The needs of the body and soul of man are very closely linked. Where there is sickness of the soul, there may be sickness of the body. The diseases of the body are often much intensified by the sins which have been committed. There is relationship between sin and sickness that cannot be denied. The work of God has shown its concern about the physical needs of the body, but it goes much farther than this. The needs and problems of the spirit or soul are on the program of the Church and workers of God. For spiritual illness, the Church offers forgiveness of sins through Jesus Christ. Spiritual health demands that the soul be fed. The Church can help the spiritually sick by its preaching, teaching and the administering the Sacraments.

Morning worship, 11—Sermon by the pastor.

The Jews and Samaritans had very little to do with each other, mainly because the people of Samaria had forsaken the Jewish faith and had been careless about intermarriage with unbelievers. Jesus did not maintain this dislike and traveled through Samaria having met a woman from this land, put forth a possible effort to lead her to a righteous life and establish her heart in the service of God. He talked to her about the water of life. He opened to her the promise that having accepted the truth of His gospel that the thirst of the soul would be satisfied. Time has proven this promise. New life and strength comes to those who drink of the fountain of life, even Jesus Christ.

Luther League, 6:30—Devotional topic, "Luther League Missionary Day," leader, Dan Balan.

"GIVE HER WINGS" by MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER XXIX

There was a telephone call for Paul during lunch. He came back saying, "Who wants to drive over to Glen Cove and fly back with me?" Julie wanted to say she did but she was glad she hadn't when Hank Smith said, "What's your plane doing in Glen Cove?"

"Being repaired. I cracked it up a couple of weeks ago. The mechanic just phoned to say she's ship-shape again."

"That makes three crack-ups for Paul since May," Nancy contributed.

Julie decided that flying was not going to be one of Paul's hobbies for long. Also, that she'd have to spend a little time thinking up alibis for not flying. No mean feat for a girl who professed a love for a sport.

She'd almost forgotten that she was supposed to be a flyer. There had been little talk about flying at the Lombar's little tandem was under canvas in the meadow back of the gardens. She'd even forgotten that she had to return to Fayette to resume her flying lessons if she was to make her aerial tour. Every day she put off writing to Pete Waddell. Every one of these pleasant days she hoped that something — a something that she couldn't put into words or form — would happen.

These days were going so fast! But she was making progress with Paul. If only she were free to go on, she felt confident that in spite of her limited time, she and Paul would arrive at a point where he would want to keep her in his life.

Hank Smith was trying to entertain her. They'd played backgammon for two hours after Paul and Nancy left to go to Glen Cove. Julie had played silently, not rising in her light fashion to his dry quips.

He said she looked "peaked"; they should have some air. They'd borrow Keats' speedboat and have a turn in the Bay. Julie loved the speedboat. She was learning to drive it, sitting at the wheel that was like the wheel of an automobile, feeling the floor boards thump under her feet when they cut through waves. If only flying were as much sport.

They had great sport, chasing boats all over the Bay to catch the waves and then, when it was six o'clock — an hour that Julie was quite conscious of — the motor stalled.

Hank worked over it with many a grunt and groan and frown and finally gave up.

"There's nothing to do but flag another boat when it comes along and have 'em send out the repair man. It's the battery. It's dead as a door-nail!"

It wasn't any fun sitting there in the light, drifting craft. They flagged another boat, shouted their needs and set down to wait for help which was promised to them.

Waiting was a slow and painful process. Hank ran out of cigarettes and Julie was thirsty. They bounced around on the changing tide and Hank tried to make conversation. Julie was in no mood for conversation. She was thinking that it was well after seven. Elsa would by now have arrived.

Hank began to look at his watch anxiously.

"You don't think those people would have forgotten to get the repair boat, do you?" Julie asked, terrified at the prospect of spending the night in that frail boat.

"Oh, no. But the boat is probably out on another call. They'll find us. We're not very far away. Frightened?"

"I wouldn't care to spend the night here, would you?"

"With you, it would be a pleasure," he returned gallantly.

Julie didn't want gallantry, she wanted assurance. "Would we have to do that?"

"It's hardly likely. But if we should, it shouldn't frighten a brave girl who wasn't afraid to fly a cardboard plane to California."

"Oh, it doesn't!" she protested hastily. Then she shivered. The warm sun was sinking fast and a sharp blow had sprung up over the water.

"What time is it?" she asked after awhile.

"Ten after eight."

After that they were both silent, straining their eyes toward the direction from which the boat was expected. When they came out three hours before the bay was full of boats. Now they were alone in a watery world.

The sky seemed dark, ominously dark to Julie.

"Do you think it's going to storm?"

Hank surveyed the sky while Julie watched his face anxiously. "I don't believe so but I don't really know."

Julie slipped a little further down in the seat which was

Though Japanese soldiers are brave under fire to the point of fanaticism, the opinion is shared by members of the high command of the U. S. army that the Nipponese would be no match for troops of the United States or another western power. Military observers and analysts point out that, though the Japanese have succeeded in their China offensives, they are not good soldiers for the reason they are "over-disciplined", and the army is inferior in artillery, compared to infantry. Aviation observers say the Japanese are not good aviators because of visual handicaps.

SALEM HIGH CAGERS ROMP TO EIGHTH VICTORY

Lutsch, Schaeffer Click, Pacing Quakers To Easy Triumph Over Brookfield

Value of Pivot Positions In Offensive Play Becomes Evident To Red and Black Quint; Reserves See Considerable Action

Displaying more offensive punch than they have at any time during the current basketball season, Coach Herb Brown's Salem High school Quakers romped to a 37 to 18 victory over Brookfield on their home court last night.

The Quakers had no trouble with the Trumbull county team, which was substituted on the schedule only yesterday when Warren High's Presidents were forced to postpone their game because of the death of the seven-year old daughter of their coach, Pierre Hill.

Piling up an 11-point lead in the first quarter, the Quakers held a decided advantage throughout the one-sided and thrill-less contest. By periods the Red and Black lads were out in front, 16 to 5 at the close of the first frame, 21 to 9 at halftime, and 35 to 14 at the close of the third quarter.

Three reserve members of the varsity squad—Glenn ("Dinty") McLaughlin, Amos Dunlap and Leonard Boushall—saw considerable action during the second and fourth quarters. Two other second stringers—Lester Knapp and Galen Duncan—also broke into the lineup in the final period.

The Quakers' scoring was at a minimum during the two periods when the reserves were in action, but in the other two frames, the first and third, the Red and Black varsity quintet piled up an advantage that was impossible for Brookfield to overcome.

Just how valuable the pivot positions can be in offensive basketball was seen by the Quakers for the first time as they worked smoother than ever before around Max Lutsch and Bill Schaeffer.

Also noticeable in the Quakers' offensive attack was the fact that they did less ball-handling in mid-court and concentrated more on getting the ball into the pivot positions for short shots.

Lutsch and Schaeffer, working at the pivot posts, attempted more shots than they have in any game to date and as a result led the individual scoring. Schaeffer hooped six field goals for 12 points, while Red Moxie dropped in four field goals and three fouls for 11 markers.

The shooting of Lutsch from the pivot position was exceptionally commendable. Previously the stocky Salem center has been wont to attempt pivot shots, but last night he changed his style and hooped three successful tosses from the swivel position.

Schaeffer garnered the majority of his points through short shots from under the basket, made possible by dragging in rebounds or evading his guard. Only one of Schaeffer's six goals was made from the pivot position, but nevertheless, his work at this point was the pivot cog in the Quakers' offense.

The mid-court work of Ollie Oleksa, Gilbert Everhart and Jim Dickey was also notably improved. They wasted less time in passing and ball-handling in the center of the floor and used the corners to more advantage than they have in any of the past games.

The entire first string team performed capably on defense and permitted Brookfield no shots from under the hoop. Tosses from side court and long range brought Brookfield its only field goals while the Red and Black varsity was in action.

Outstanding among the second stringers was the offensive play of McLaughlin, who again demonstrated that he is the smoothest passer and one of the best ball-handlers on the varsity squad. McLaughlin's hook pass into the pivot position and his sidearm bounce pass worked perfectly every time he brought them into play.

Although Brookfield did not offer the opposition expected, the game provided the Quakers a splendid opportunity to perfect their offense for the tough test that lies ahead next week against Massillon, the team which is ranked No. 1 in Ohio scholastic basketball ranks today.

Providing the Red and Black lads keep up their offensive improvement and Schaeffer and Lutsch further develop their pivot play, their chance of winning over Massillon is as good as that of any team in the state.

No game is scheduled for the Quakers tonight. They will be idle until next Friday night when they meet the state's top-ranking team, The Salem reserves came through with their eighth victory in 10 starts in the preliminary game last night, trouncing the Fairmount Children's Home quintet of Alliance, 38 to 26.

Thirteen players saw action for the Quaker reserves and all but two of them broke into the scoring column. Burton Sutter and Bob Whitcomb topped the scoring with six points apiece.

CARDS HOPEFUL OF DEVELOPING INFELD POWER

"Stu" Martin May Provide Punch Lacking Last Year

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Baseball's grandstand managers predicted that "Stu" Martin wasn't even good enough to warm the bench in the Cardinals' dugout when he reported for spring training in 1936 but when the Gas House Gang lines up for the 1938 pennant dash, Martin will be carrying the hopes of the entire Red Bird management.

When Branch Rickey, Sam Breadon and Company concentrated on the causes of the Cardinals' disastrous 1937 showing, a scratchy, punchless infield was found to be one of the major defects.

The inner line defense, Johnny Mize was the only satisfactory performer. Rookies Don Gutierrez and Jimmy Brown failed to live up to reports and Leo Durocher, veteran shortstop, was no ball of fire.

The tall, gangling Martin has undergone a double operation—tonsils and appendix—and is determined to win back his second base job this season.

During the spring training season of Martin's freshman year he wasn't a sensation. Experts freely said that the big weakness in the Cardinal infield would be second base, Frisch's old spot. It seemed that the loss of crackerjack Burgess Whitehead via the trade route, besides incurring the anger of the St. Louis fans, would be felt most keenly.

But the Cards apparently had the answer. Lyle Judy, a 307 hitter with Springfield of the Western association and a flash on the base paths—he stole 107 bases—was boomed as the successor to the "Fordham Flash." But Judy, like so many a minor league sensation, didn't make the grade.

Frisch, in desperation, was forced to gamble on dark-horse Martin. And Martin, the player who didn't have a chance, made good. Forgotten was Judy's loss and the resentment over Whitehead. Here was a second baseman who had what it takes.

Then, after displaying flashy fielding skill, speed and a better than .300 batting average, Martin was hit by illness. He was able to play in only 92 games and batted .298. He collected 99 hits, including 21 doubles, four triples and six homers, for 146 total bases.

"Stu" tried gamely, but his siege of illness had weakened him and his play fell below par.

Martin regularly weighs around 155 pounds. He is six feet tall. He was born in Rich Square, N. C., on Nov. 17, 1913, and now lives at Severn, N. C.

His rise to baseball prominence was rapid. After completing two years at Guilford college in his home state, he listened to the siren song of Frank Riskey, brother of the Red Bird's major-domo, Branch, and joined Houston in the Texas league in 1934. He was with Columbus of the American association in 1935 and batted .378 in 13 games.

He was dropped to Asheville of the Piedmont league where he hit .339 in 118 games for a new league record. He came through with 20 doubles, nine triples and four homers.

If Martin can come back and regain form anywhere near that of his freshman days, he will ease one of Frisch's biggest headaches.

What They're Bowling For

Checks, footwear and mineralite balls—all but the girls are prizes in the $34,000 Red Crown Bowling Sweepstakes in which 232,656 teenpin fans are competing—a world's record number of participants for any sports event. At Chicago headquarters of the nationwide classic Miss Donna Crowley (right) and Miss Naomi Anderson display some of the awards.

After suffering a three-game, trimming at the hands of a last place team last week, Deming Keglers returned to form to sweep a Federal league match with the County Engineers at the Masonic temple alleys last night.

The Pumpmakers lead the Federal loop with a record of 39 wins and 12 losses.

In other Federal activity last night, the Engineers won three games from the Sanitary Office in a postponed match; the Natural Gas Co. took two out of three from Brownie's Amoco Gas and the Salem News won two out of three from the Electric Furnace.

In winning one of their two games from Brownie's, the Gas Co. turned in a 900 score for second high in the league to date.

A mixed match between Abe's A. A. Ladies and the Sinclair men's team of the Commercial league was bowled at the Grate alleys last night with the Sinclairs winning, 1967 to 1836.

John Burns led the Sinclairs with 568, while Mrs. Frieda Orr was high for the ladies with 506.

In a special match at the Grate lanes, the People's Lumber of the Commercial league trounced a Lisbon team, 2525 to 2032. A 605 score by Frank, including a 250 single game, was high for the Lumbermen.

Women's Tourney Has New Leader

AKRON, Jan. 29.—New leaders stood at the top of two divisions today as the 13th annual Ohio women's bowling championship tournament swung into its final weekend.

Akron Recreation No. 1 keglers blasted their way to the forefront in Division B with a 2,440 total. They replaced Cleveland's Blue Flashes, who tallied a 2,321 count a week ago.

Ohio Edition of Akron set a new pace with 2,148 in Class C, nosing out Poley's of Akron who hit a total of 2,092.

HOLDOUTS HURT FAMILY SPIRIT OF N. Y. GIANTS

National League Champs No Longer Blessed With Bliss

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—There's a sneaking suspicion around the Polo Grounds these days that the Giants aren't that "one big, happy family" any longer.

For years and years it's been the proud boast of the National league champions that they were different. Each spring when other magnates had their hands full handling the squawks, there were no holdouts, no howls or harsh words there between the boss and his hired hands.

But things seem to be happening this spring. Definitely, some of the boys have the bit in their teeth.

When rowdy Richard Bartell added his "holer" to those of Outfielder Hank Leiber and Catcher Harry Danning regarding 1938 salary offers, it marked the first time in years the Giants had been bothered with such trivial matters.

A year ago, even though they were champions then, the signed contracts poured in so fast on President Horace Stoneham and Secretary Eddie Brannick that there was talk of hiring a special filing clerk.

The only dissenting voice came from a second-string catcher, and it was nothing more than a murmur from that party, asking reassurance that he'd get more work and less bench-warming duty.

But since then, the second-string catcher has been "discovered." He is Dan McGinnis, who proved such a life-saver and pleasant surprise after first-stringer Gus Mancuso was injured last year. And Harry realizes it. He had returned his contract unsigned and advised the Giant management he wanted a 100 per cent salary boost to $12,500.

Leiber received around $8,000 or $9,000 last year.

Rowdy Richard is the shortest sparkplug of Terry's Terriers. At $17,000 last year, he was the highest priced shortstop in the National league, if not in the entire big time.

"If a man can't command his highest salary at his peak, when can he?" he told the Giant front office. "I had the best season of my career last year, and I expect to be better this season."

Top-Flight Table Tennis Stars To Play In Tourney

COLUMBUS, Jan. 29.—Al Schuff, manager of the Ohio Open table tennis tournament, said today that several top-flight players were among late entrants for the event to be held Feb. 5 and 6.

Garrett Nash and J. N. Price of St. Louis, both ranked nationally, are entered as proteges of Elmer Cinnater, captain of the U. S. Swaythling cup team which won the world title in Budapest, Hungary, last year.

Colleges represented include Ohio State university, Capital, Otterbein, Dayton, Western Reserve and Wittenberg.

Ragazzo Signs

CLEVELAND, Jan. 29.—Phil Ragazzo, Western Reserve university senior from Niles, today was under a two-year contract with the Green Bay Packers of the National Professional Football league. He said the contract would finance his law study at Western Reserve law school. Ragazzo played at tackle on the Red Cat team last season.

North Bergen, N. J.—Gino Garibaldi, 220, St. Louis, won decision over George Koverly, 220, Hollywood, Calif., one hour.

Is Allen Starting Sidown?

Johnny Allen at St. Petersburg

Refusing the first 1938 contract offered by the Cleveland Indians, Pitcher Johnny Allen may be starting a one-man sitdown strike at his home in St. Petersburg. Here Johnny is perched in a tennis judge's chair, sitting down for the moment, anyway.

Chicago Attempts To Leave Cellar

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—Chicago's Maroons, hopeful of performing in the style which gave them a victory over the strong Loyola university team last week, will try to shoot their way out of the Big Ten basketball cellar tonight—at Minneapolis's expense.

The teams tangle at Minneapolis in the only Western conference game of the evening. The Maroons, losers of three games in as many starts, have been strengthened by the return to action of Bob Cassels, forward who has been nursing a kidney injury. Minnesota has won one game and lost three.

"We Didn't Do Much" Words Of School Board Members After Athletic Meeting

Athletic Group Holds Eight-Hour Session, But Takes Little Action; Warren Basketball Players Are Ruled Ineligible

COLUMBUS, Jan. 29.—Ohio's high school athletic board consumed eight hours last night and early today at its annual winter meeting, after which commissioner H. R. Townsend summed up the results of the private session with: "We didn't do very much."

The board, although it discussed a host of items, took definite action on but a few. Here's what it accomplished, Commissioner Townsend said:

Decided to submit to the 1,140 member schools a referendum on enlarging district boards from three to five members, and another on whether the low hurdle track event should be raced at 200 or 220 yards.

Approved the selective draw, under which teams from the same district are prevented from meeting in the first round, for the state basketball tournament.

Decided to leave it up to the state basketball champions whether they should be awarded gold basketballs or gold rings.

Hired the same timers and scorers for the state tourney that "worked it" in 1937.

Townsend said nothing was done about "slowing up" the present "stream-lined" basketball game.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Here's one you can go to sleep on, boys... If and when Dr. John Bain Sutherland (Jack to some of you) decides to call it a day at Pitt, a California school will be his next stop...

Judge Landis is one of the easiest to get to of the big shots... Van Mungo is apt to be traded over the week-end and if he is, the Giants, Cards or Pirates will get him...

Max Schmeling should be a lead pipe cinder to kick Ben Ford tomorrow in Hamburg.

Senja Henie, who has impressed everyone here as being "regular," turned down an offer of $200,000 to cancel her skating tour and return to the movies...

Colonel Ruppert is chuckling over the reaction of the Yanks, notably Messers. Gomez and Gehrig, to their 1938 contracts...

Colman Macdonald is the Cunnel meant to raise 'em more all the time... but if Joe DiMaggio gets more than $25,000, you can see the roster who is writing this...

Mr. Bill Terry gets in town today. Oh, oh... Yesterday one N. Y. Sports columnist referred to Bill as "Sweet William," but he was careful to put in quotes. That squib about a Saratoga Springs (N. Y.) basketball team dropping 27 in a row brought only a sneer from Three Rivers, Mich., which has 37 53 just like that... North Carolina U. puts one over on its old rival, Duke, by getting Sammy Baugh to help the boys in spring practice.

SEBRING TOPS GOSHEN QUINT

DAMASCUS, Jan. 29.—Goshen High school cagers suffered their worst defeat of the season here last night, losing to Sebring, 37 to 8.

The visitors led throughout the contest with Schneider and Admyer setting the scoring pace by scoring eight points apiece.

Sebring reserves topped Goshen reserves, 26 to 14, in one preliminary game, while in another contest an eighth grade team from Sebring won over Goshen eighth graders, 13 to 11.

Goshen boys and girls teams will play Berlin Center lads and lassies here next Friday night.

Theater Attractions

Katharine Hepburn and Ginger Rogers in a scene from "Stage Door" showing at the State Sunday through Tuesday.

The much discussed "Stage Door", one of the ten best pictures in 1937, will be seen at the State Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.
Ginger Rogers, Katharine Hepburn and Adolphe Menjou head an excellent cast, which includes Gail Patrick, Constance Collier, Andrea Leeds, Lucille Ball, Samuel Hinds, Ralph Forbes, Pierre Watkin, Ann Miller and Franklin Pangborn.
The picture is based on the famous stage play of the same name. The story tells the experiences of a group of ambitious girls, residing in a theatrical boarding house in New York.

Hepburn and Rogers
Featured in the picture are Katharine Hepburn as a society girl who runs away from home to satisfy a craving for the theater, and a clever young dancer, Ginger Rogers. The society girl wins a coveted part in a Broadway production because her wealthy father secretly finances the play.

Another girl, who had hoped to play the role, bitterly disappointed, kills herself. The tragedy reacts on her former companions, influencing their lives, particularly those of the society girl and the dancer.

Following "Stage Door", the State presents Grace Moore's new picture, "I'll Take Romance", in which Melvyn Douglas is co-starred with the singer. The film will be seen at the State Wednesday and Thursday.

Helen Westley and Stuart Erwin have supporting roles.
Jane Withers' "Checkers" comes to the State Friday and Saturday, with Una Merkel, Stuart Erwin and young Marvin Stephens in featured parts.

Man-proof featuring Myrna Loy, Walter Pidgeon, Rosalind Russell and Franchot Tone, shows at the State for the last time tonight.

New Chan Mystery
A new Charlie Chan mystery, "Charlie Chan at Monte Carlo", will be the Grand theater attraction Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Warner Oland and Keye Luke are again cast, respectively, as the astute detective and his ambitious young son. Others in the cast are Virginia Field, Harold Huber and Robert Kent.

A return engagement of "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer" is booked for the Grand screen Wednesday and Thursday. Gary Cooper, Franchot Tone, Richard Cromwell, Sir Guy Standing, C. Aubrey Smith, Monte Blue and Kathleen Burke have featured roles.

Zane Grey's "Born to the West" comes to the Grand Friday and Saturday with a cast which includes John Wayne, Marsha Hunt, John Mack Brown, John Patterson and Monte Blue.
The western, "The Old Wyoming Trail", featuring Charles Starrett, concludes tonight at the Grand.

Before the committee again, adding: "The committee had considerable information about Maiden's activities, but lacked the time to bring them out."

May Call Nolan
While some of the investigators continued at work, the committee planned no more public hearing until next Wednesday. It was reported that Nolan would be subpoenaed as a witness.

In the committee record was testimony of Mrs. B. Scheffler Ellis, general manager of a Zanesville flour milling company, that her business, with the state practically disappeared after she refused to contribute heavily to the Democratic state campaign fund.
H. H. Wagner, purchasing agent of the City of Cincinnati, testified he purchased flour at a price per barrel of $1 or more below that paid by the state.

'Broke', Goes to Bed
CLEVELAND, Jan. 29.—John Gentlar, 60, an Austrian-born carpenter, exhausted his $5,000 savings, then went to bed. His landlady daily rapped at his door to learn if he was all right.

She called police when his "yah" became weak. Gentlar said he went without food 19 days. Police brought him the food for which, he said, "I no can pay."

Held In Slaying
CINCINNATI, Jan. 29.—Arthur Coffey, 43, was held here today for Kentucky authorities as an escaped prisoner charged with the slaying of John Fitzgerald, 41, last March 2 in Louisville, Ky. Officials from there were expected here today or tomorrow to return him after his capture by the Indian hills rangers and Butler county police.

Asks Renomination
COLUMBUS, Jan. 29.—State Treasurer Charles H. Knisley, Bainbridge announced today that he would be a candidate for renomination on the Democratic ticket at the August primaries. Knisley, serving his first term as state treasurer, formerly was secretary of the state utilities commission.

Dietrich To Speak
LISBON, Jan. 29.—E. N. Dietrich, state director of education, will speak at the annual meeting of rural board members and teachers at New Waterford Feb. 16. County Superintendent W. E. Roberts announced today.
The meeting will open with a dinner at 6:30 p. m. in the high school building.

Hard Water Cry
ALLIANCE, Jan. 29.—Mayor Floyd H. Seun today ordered pumps at the city's three new water wells stopped, pending investigation of complaints that the municipal water supply since the introduction of well water is too "hard" for use.

NEWS IN BRIEF

companies, were reported by usually well informed officials also to be divided.

Agreed On Need
They have agreed, these officials said, that some regulation is needed to prevent bank holding companies from becoming too powerful, but not all favor their abolition by government decree.

The banking advisers yesterday conferred with Chairman William O. Douglas of the securities commission and it was learned that the lineup was as follows:

For abolition: Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Undecided: Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor (who will leave office April 1).

Senator Glass (D-Va.), author of much of the federal government's banking laws, also would abolish the holding companies. He is drafting a bill to give them five years in which to dissolve.

Bare 8 Slayings In Mental Hospital

BOSTON, Jan. 29.—Investigators responsible for uncovering eight slayings of insane patients in Massachusetts mental hospitals within four years today began sifting reports of 400 other deaths to check the possibility of other slayings among them.

The latest killing disclosed by aides of State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley was that of Edward M. Souther of Malden, whose death last Dec. 29 was attributed in a medical examiner's report to "bronchial pneumonia following an accident."

Buckley said Souther was assaulted at Danvers State hospital on Dec. 21 by another patient.

Buckley's investigators found 424 patients died from other than natural causes in Massachusetts mental hospitals between 1929 and 1936.

Simultaneously, Dr. Clifton C. Perkins, acting commissioner of the mental diseases department, declared in a statement that each of the deaths had been publicly reported at the time.

DEATHS

MRS. CHRISTIE WALTER
Mrs. Christie Walter, 87, widow of James A. Walter, a Civil war veteran, died at her home on R. D. 4, Lisbon, at 5 p. m. Friday of complications.

Mrs. Walter, born Nov. 28, 1850, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Otto, came to this vicinity from Pennsylvania in 1883. She was a member of the St. Jacob's Reformed church. Her husband died five years ago.

Surviving are seven children, Mrs. Annie Fisher and Ralph Walter of Lisbon, Mrs. Catherine Beach, Jesse Walter and Mrs. Lottie Gibbs of Salem, Edward Walter of Halfway, Ore., and Mrs. Leona Floding of Leetonia; 27 grandchildren, 24 great grandchildren and two great great grandchildren.

A short service will be conducted at the home on R. D. 4 at 1 p. m. Monday, followed by a service at 1:30 p. m. in St. Jacob's church. Rev. Ray Klingaman will be in charge. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Friends may call at the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home here tonight and at the home on R. D. 4 Sunday afternoon and evening.

MRS. HANNAH GRIFFITH
Mrs. Hannah Griffith, former Lisbon resident, died Thursday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Phoebe Loveland, Cleveland.
Mrs. Griffith, 98, was the oldest member of the Presbyterian church here, retaining her membership after leaving the village. She leaves three daughters and one son, including Mrs. Loveland; Mrs. George Thomas of East Liverpool; Miss Mary Griffith, Cleveland and John Griffith, Lisbon.
Interment will be here Sunday.

THOMAS ALFRED PAXSON
Thomas Alfred Paxson, year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Paxson of Berlin Center, died Thursday evening, in Youngstown Southside hospital, following three days' illness.

The baby was born in Salem. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Paxson; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Shively of Warren, and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Paxson of Berlin Center.
Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Williams funeral home in Canfield. Friends may call there tonight.

der federal courts efficient," he asserted. Measurable progress in this direction will be made, however, if the Ashurst bill, providing for the establishment of the administrative office of the United States court, is adopted.

The Ashurst bill, he asserted, would set up a federal court administrator appointed by the chief justice and provide for an administrative office which would examine dockets in various courts and determine where assistance was needed to decide cases.

Earlier the delegates heard from Representative Martin Dies (D-Texas) an assertion that the Black-Cannery wages and hours bill was "sixty-five pages of language that would have caused Stalin to blush."

What It Meant

He declared that passage of the measure "would have meant surrender of state sovereignty to the federal government and the delegation of federal and legislative powers to a bureaucratic setup." Its defeat, he said, was the first test of strength between "the forces of democracy and bureaucracy."

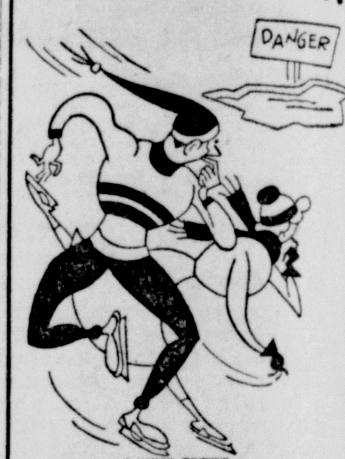

Walter S. Ruff of Canton, president of the state association, urged that Ohio set up a commission to recommend changes in the state's marriage statutes, asserting that the association was now performing research work in the direction.

The association approved amendment of its bylaws to change the semi-annual meetings from mid-winter and mid-summer to spring and autumn.
